ows, married women and girls in employment should be freed from taxation, and all other women be taxed $2,00 each. The amendment was lost and the bill passed to third reading when the committee rose.

The Honolulu harbor bill was read a second time and referred to a select com. to fill up the blanks. The bill making Kapueokahi a port of entry was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Funk's road tax bill was then taken up

Mr. Wakeman moved to postpone indefinitely.
Mr. Funk explained. It abolished all labor days but substituted instead, a tax in money in proportion to the poll tax upon all persons throughout the king-

Mr. Kaumaea thought the amount to be raised by the proposed bill would be insufficient for the construction of roads. So thought Mr. Rhodes, who said that since the house had passed a bill this morning abolishing the tax on women the amount raised would be still decreased, and opposed the bill. Mr. Funk again explained. Mr. Wakeman disliked the bill because by it all, rich and poor were to be taxed alike, and even then

On motion, the orders of the day were then taken up, and the bill altering the law of Divorce was read a third time and passed. The bill defining the rights of women unlawfully married was taken up in com. of the whole. After considerable debate, on motion, the bill was referred to a select com. to confer with His Honor Judge Lee and report back to the House, when the com. The bill freeing wood &c. of the mountains was read a second time and ordered for com. of the whole on Tuesday next. The report of the committee on accounts was then taken up in com. of the whole.

Mr. Sheldon offered a resolution as follows — Resolved. That the refusal of the Minister of Finance to pay the drafts of the com. on accounts of this House on the ground that no appropriation has yet May been made to meet the expenses of the Legislature. while he continues to advance the pay of any officer of the Gov't, must be regarded by this House as a manisfestation of disrespect to the Representatives of the People.

Mr. Richardson opposed the resolution, on the ground that it was calculated to make a breach between the Minister and this House. Did not understand that the Minister was obliged to pay any monies without an appropriation.

Mr. Robertson supported the resolution. It was plain that the Minister intended his refusal as a mark short of an insult. The pay of Representatives of the people was ascertained by law, and should this pay was certain and the Minister could not refuse to advance it.

Mr. Ukeke liked the resolution. Thought the conduct of the Minister showed that he was incensed at the House having passed so many questioning by passing this resolution. Did not think that any schooner "KULUMANU," Peterson master, will officers of Gov't were receiving their pay, or would run as a regular packet between Honolulu and Lareceive it until the appropriation bill was passed .- hains, leaving Honolulu every Friday at 5 P. M. and Thought that the resolution only showed the bad an- | Lahaina every Tuesday P. M. animus in the House towards the Minister. The House had not gore one hair's breadth out of its legitimate course in questioning the Minister. In the United States and England vouchers were required from Ministers for everything.

Mr. Metcalf. The House had censured the Minister for spending money without an appropriation and now they were about to censure him for not

Mr. Rhodes thought that if ever there was a call for censure from a House of Commons upon a Minister there was now such a call. The Minister says he will not pay the Representatives, and it remained to be seen who was the stronger - the Minister of Finance or the Representatives of the People. The Minister says I will let you know if you misbehave; I will punish you for it-you have enquired too strictly into my accounts - I will let you know that you shall not do it with impunity. If the House at this moment surrendered its rights it forever lost its independence.

After a rather lengthy and sharp debate in which Messrs. Robertson, Kamaipelekane, Naiapaakai, Kaumaea and Wakeman joined for the resolution, and Messrs. Metcalf and Richardson against it,—Mr. Robertson moved that the committee on accounts be sons for the Minister's refusing to honor the drafts of the committee on accounts of the committee on accounts.

Mr. Sheldon withdrew his resolution but reserved the right to again bring it forward. The resolution did not proceed from any bad animus, but from a desire to secure and make known the rights of this House. On motion it was voted that the Speaker write to the Minister and request his answer in writing, as to his refusal to honor the drafts of the com. on accounts. The com. then rose and reported.

The committee Fish Bill was read a second time, when the House adjourned. Wednesday, May 19.

tion license. Ordered to be read a second time on Monday next.

Mr. Kalili's bill regulating the trespass of estrays was read a first time and ordered for Tuesday.

A letter from the Min. of Finance was received in answer to the inquiry of the house of yesterday, to the effect that he was ready to pay the amount due members according to law. Some debate ensued as to the pay of clerks and in

Mr. Sheldon asked how these things were managed last year? Were the clerks and interpreter obliged to

In answer to the question of the member from Kona, he would suggest that as many inquiries had been made by this house, of the Min. of Finance in reference to the books, and much had been said in regard to the loose way in which monies had been paid out, the Min. may have to declare bankrupt. Another objection was that it encouraged prostitution, among the women.

Mr. Robertson liked the intention of the bill, but thought that if this tax was taken off we must put a higher tax on men to make up the deficiency.

Mr. Funk proposed as an amendment, that widness. > He came to this place in the R. B. Forbes,—arrived in Jan. It is but a few short months since he left his birth-place, in the hope that an escape from the winter then approaching, and residence in a mider clime, would renovate his strength, and give him power to enj y again those active pleasures, and those duties which belong to his period of life, and which were once to him pr. ductive of the highest enjoyment. He had chosen the life of a scholar, and entered upon its path. His constitution became debilitated—but it was thought by his friends to be the result of rapid growth. They knew not, that even then, disease was "slowly sapping the warm current of existence." During the voyage it mattered little to him, whether the proud ship which bore him to these shores, bounded with rapid speed over the glad waters, er lay with flapping sails, "Idle as a painted ship.

At Honolulu, May 7th, John K. Farnham of West Boxford.

"Idle as a painted ship, Upon a painted ocean." For him there was no excitement in any scene. Here, no invigorating influence acted on his weakened frame. Languar continued to creep surely, but almost imperceptibly over it, until, at last the springs of life ceased to act, as it were, from very weariness.

He was the only son of his mother, and she was a nidow. No rich and poor were to be taxed alike, and even then the amount raised would be insufficient for the purpose.

The Bill abolishing poll tax on women was ordered for a third reading on Thursday.

The select committee to whom was referred the petition praying for a reduction of the costs of the land commission recommended to lay the petition on the table.

A letter was received from the Governor of Kauai, stating that the District Justice of Niihau was in town and was ready to explain the reason that no representative had appeared from that Island. Referred to committee on elections.

Tuesday, May 18.

He was the only son of his mother, and she was a widex. No words can present to the human mind a more affecting picture. From the fount of deep, strong, deathless leve in a mother's heart there flews an unbroken stream towards an only son, made visible by numberless attentions intended to promote his welfare or happiness. Of these, he was deprived, yet so constant was the kindness he experienced from those among strangers. For him, the young companions of his voyage, whose hearts were beating high with health and hope, left their pleasure or their business, and with softened voice, and gentle hand, spake the word of sympathy, mis istered to his wants, or sustained his faltering steps. Many came in the spirit of Him, who had compassion on the widow of Nain—and though they had not the power to give back the son, they did what they could, and their kind acts were light and flowers on his path-way to the grave. May all such have their reward—may the blessing of the Gop of the widow and the fatherless rest upon them.—Communicated.
